

Despite the unsettled condition of world affairs there doesn't seem to be much of a future for communities trying to promote war plants. Recently the Defense Department announced abandonment of plans to reactivate and greatly enlarge the old air base property at Blytheville — and to this day we don't know positively that the Air Force will complete the job. A bomber base which is projected for Little Rock.

Even under "cold war" conditions it is perfectly normal to expect drastic cutbacks from the high level of armament during a world conflict. And so some defense establishments will be maintained, and an occasional new one built — but for the country as a whole the prospect of a quick and easy money boom due to defense construction has evaporated.

The result of this should be a sharp refocusing of community attention on the problems and immediate sources of the land immediately around us. Hope and its territory have many of the resources which should encourage civilian industry to settle here and multiply; but we also have a problem — our town and its neighboring towns are too short of water to serve any major industry, or accommodate any pronounced growth in population which might accompany new industry that of itself didn't require much water.

The cities of this area pump municipal and industrial water from deep wells. So do many of the towns in Texas. And in both Texas and Arkansas the water level is dropping alarmingly. The drop in some parts of Texas is measured at more than 60 feet. I don't have data on this section of Arkansas, but the decline in underwater levels is general for our state and our country.

Depending on deep well water for industry and future population growth is about as foolish as a man with a DeLco farm powerplant advertising to a factory that he has an industrial site "with electricity."

Arkansas is credited with having more miles of navigable river than any state in the nation — yet we go on year after year enduring floods during the winter and parching droughts in summer. The fact is, adequate surface water supplies are all around us — but we need dams and reservoirs and pipelines to make them usable.

Now about to be reactivated is the big Millwood dam project west of Saratoga, on the Hemstead county line — a flood control reservoir which would be about four times the size of Narrows lake. The Corps of Engineers are now readying this project, having resolved all arguments between the upstream and downstream folks along Little river in favor of one big dam at the Saratoga location.

But Millwood is authorized solely as a flood control project. No city or industry can get any water from that reservoir unless stipulation is made in advance. A few feet must be added to the height of the dam, if municipal and industrial needs are to be reckoned with.

We don't want to pass up an opportunity to guarantee ourselves water rights in Millwood. We want that guarantee even though it might be years before we ever invested in pumps and pipelines.

Over in Texas the federal government built giant Denison dam, but the City of Denison overlooked asking for water rights — and today Denison, Texas, can't get a dime's worth of water out of all that vast reservoir.

16 New Polio Cases, One in Hempstead

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — Polio held an even keel in Arkansas last week.

The state board of health today reported 16 new cases for the week ended last Saturday, but three below the 19 the same week last year. The state now counts 265 cases this year compared with 272 at the same time last year.

No deaths from polio were reported last week, while one was reported the week before and one the same week last year. The death toll to date this year is 19, compared with 21 at the same time last year.

Of the new cases, seven were paralytic, five non-paralytic and four unspecified. Pulaski, Sebastian, Washington and Hempstead counties had two new cases each last week, while Chicot, Mississippi, Union, Benton, Crittenden, Lawrence, Garland and Polk counties had one each.

Dr. H. J. Heller Dies in Kansas City

Dr. L. M. Lile received a message today telling him of the death in Kansas City last night of Dr. H. J. Heller, about 65, who practiced several years in Hope during the last World War. Dr. Heller had been in ill health for some time.

Giant Hog Shown at District Stock Show and Some Prize Cattle Enjoy Shower-Bath

—Star photos

The giant hog was hunting a cool corner in 1-degree heat when The Star photographed him at the Third District Livestock Show. Owned by Bill Sings of Hot Springs, a Henderson State student, his weight is estimated between 800 and 900 pounds. A. W. Chaney, his keeper, kneels on the floor of the pen to emphasize the animal's great size.

Floyd Wren of Prescott hoses down one of his fine Herefords at a hydrant just outside the exhibit barn at the District Stock Show here. The animal, his eyes tightly shut, enjoys the shower. Associated with Mr. Wren in the cattle business is his son Joe.

A Black Angus owned by B. T. Fooks, Camden, gets the same water treatment from Dale Flora, in charge of Mr. Fooks' exhibit herd now on display at the District Stock Show in Hope.

From the Lima (Ohio) News comes the following:

"Talk in the plant at the Davidson Enamel, Inc., got around to watermelons last week. George Derryberry of 606 W. Kirby St. listened and then spoke his piece: 'Watermelons in Arkansas,' he pointed out firmly, 'get to be pretty good size — maybe 100 pounds are more.'"

Night supervisor Harold E. Walters, RFD Five, got into the act.

"I'd like to have one of those melons — one of the big ones," he said, winking at the others. It was a good joke. It was still a good joke when a 120-pound melon, carrying a Hope, Ark., Chamber of Commerce seal, arrived in Lima Saturday for Walters. Yes the boys in the plant still get a kick out of it — when they recall the look on Walters' face as he forked over $21.92 to cover cost."

Still No Word From Young Kidnaped Boy

By CHARLES NETHAWAY

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP) — Millionaire auto dealer Robert Greenleaf sat by the telephone in his suburban mansion today waiting for word from the kidnaper who took his brown-eyed six-year-old son from a convent school two days ago.

The 71-year-old father, near collapse after two days of anxious waiting, said he would only be a temporary break in his study.

Gen. Hull to Take Over in Korea

TOKYO (AP) — Gen. John E. Hull arrives tomorrow to take over the Far East and United Nations Command from Gen. Mark W. Clark, who returns to the United States about Oct. 7.

Hull and his wife will be met at the airport by General and Mrs. Clark and other senior officers.

Thousands Jam Show Grounds Second Night

Literally thousands jammed Hope's Fair park last night when the 9th annual Third District Livestock Show is in progress. Estimated range from about 1,500 to 6,000 in the Coliseum arena show to an over 8,000 throughout the show grounds.

It was by far the largest crowd in the history of the show and the big parade, which usually pulls a biggest gathering, is not slated until 3 p.m. Wednesday afternoon.

Hundreds of entries are in the rodeo parade including barrel races, novelty acts, industrial exhibits and riders. Shortly after noon today the crowd began to fill the local streets for the event.

Tonight at the Coliseum the first rodeo performance will be held with dozens of cowboys competing for $800 in prize money plus entrance fees. The rodeo will continue throughout the week. The show starts at 8 o'clock.

In the jam-packed coliseum last night 5,000 or more heard Governor Francis Cherry outline industrial and agricultural progress in Arkansas and promise continued aid throughout.

The stage show featuring Candy Candler as master of ceremonies was very well received by the huge audience. The acts were absolutely tops in entertainment and the crowd roared when one of the entertainers stepped into the audience and risked the governor on both cheeks.

The large midway was also packed during the stage show and when it was over it was really jammed.

All local schools turned out for the parade this afternoon and will turn out again Friday afternoon to allow students to attend "School Day" at the show. There will be no gate admission until 6 p.m. for school children and all rides and side shows will cost the youngsters only nine cents. It was announced by Manager Bob Shivers.

President Flatly Against Sales Tax Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today his administration has no intention of proposing a retail sales tax. He did not rule out, however, the possibility of a manufacturer's excise tax.

In a brief news conference discussion, Eisenhower declined to predict whether it might be necessary for the administration to ask for new taxes of some kind to offset reduction of income taxes and elimination of the excess profits levy scheduled for Jan. 1.

Under the present law individual income taxes are due to come down 10 per cent with the new year. The administration has said this will go through as scheduled. As for a retail sales tax, Eisenhower said that for many years he personally has been against one.

Now the treasury has made a detailed study, he said, and he concluded this field of taxation belongs to state and local governments.

Eisenhower covered a variety of subjects in the news conference, his first in 10 weeks.

There was first of all the well-predicted announcement of his choice of Gov. Earl Warren of California to be chief justice of the United States as successor to the late Fred M. Vinson.

Actress Quits Convent, Blames Health

By JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — June Haver, the movie star who gave up $3,500 a week for life in a convent, is home today for the first time. She says she will give her health to continue her religious vocation.

The 27-year-old petite beauty, her once platinum hair now returned to its natural brownish shade, flew here last night from Kansas City, on orders from her doctor and religious superiors.

Severe migraine headaches and a general rundown condition caused what June hopes will only be a temporary break in her study.

Angry Allies Say Prisoners Are 'Sold Out'

By WILLIAM MILLER

PANMUNJON, Korea (UP) — Allied officers charged angrily today that the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission had sold out some 22,000 anti-Communist prisoners to the Reds, but were told there would be "appeals" from the commission ruling.

U. N. officials had charged the principle of voluntary repatriation "has been murdered" by the rules, which require every prisoner to attend counter-brainwashing sessions even if he does not want to.

"They violated their sentiments," he said, "and they sold out the prisoners."

The commission includes Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia, Sweden, Switzerland and India. U. N. officials had charged the principle of voluntary repatriation "has been murdered" by the rules, which require every prisoner to attend counter-brainwashing sessions even if he does not want to.

Warren Named Justice by the President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today named Gov. Earl Warren of California to be chief justice of the United States.

The President told his news conference the 62-year-old Warren, a Republican, will make a great chief justice, and that he will be on the bench of the high court when it opens its fall session Monday.

The recess appointment of Warren as successor to the late Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson is subject to Senate confirmation when Congress reconvenes in January. Warren died of a heart attack Sept. 8.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UP) — Gov. Earl Warren said today he had wired Mr. Eisenhower his "humble acceptance" of appointment to be chief justice of the United States.

Big Reward for Small Bottle

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A Texas couple has offered a $2,500 reward to the person who finds a small green bottle which the wife left in the purse she mislaid at a service station here yesterday.

The husband, F. A. Bailey of Dallas, said his wife had filled the bottle just before they left home, stuffing cotton on top of the contents and putting it in her purse.

The bottle contained $5,000 — nine $500 bills and five $100 bills.

Korean Debate Hopeless, Says Vishinsky

By STANLEY JOHNSON

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Chief Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky told the United Nations today there was no possibility of "hoping" that the proposed Korean political conference will meet unless the U. N. reconsiders its previous decision.

Vishinsky referred to a U. N. decision taken last month to exclude neutrals from the conference which is scheduled to open by Oct. 28.

The fiery Russian demanded that the 40-nation political committee take up immediately a debate on suggestions from Communist China and North Korea that India and other neutrals be invited and Russia excluded.

Gen. Patton's Widow Dies in Accident

HAMILTON, Mass. (UP) — Mrs. George S. Patton, 67, widow of the famed World War II Third Army commander, was killed today when she fell from her horse while riding to the house near the exclusive Myopia Hunt Club.

Mrs. Patton, an expert horsewoman, died instantly when her thoroughbred chestnut gelding reared suddenly and threw her to the ground at the start of the hunt.

Dr. Peter Johnson, summoned to the scene, said Mrs. Patton apparently suffered a broken neck in the mishap, which occurred on the estate of wealthy Frederick Ayer Sr., adjoining the hunt club. About 25 persons, all of the North Shore society set, were in the hunting party which had set out from Myopia with two fox hounds.

Irked President Denies Breaking Any Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a flash of anger, President Eisenhower said today he never had knowingly broken an agreement with any associate. The statement was made in reference to the resignation of Martin Durkin from his Cabinet.

Squaring his jaw, Eisenhower told his news conference that if anybody in the room had evidence to the contrary he could have the floor and present it then and there.

Durkin, who quit as secretary of labor, told the AFL convention that the President backed down on an agreement, to recommend 10 changes in the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Durkin addressed the convention as head of the AFL plumbers union, a job he resumed after quitting the Cabinet.

The White House denied at the time that the President ever committed himself to any specific recommendations.

Eisenhower himself, asked today for his own version, said at first he would not give it because it has always been his policy to avoid comment on individuals.

Then, eyes flashing, the President said that to his knowledge he has never broken any agreement with any associate in his life. He asserted the truth is that no agreement actually had been reached.

U. S., France Deal for Aid to Indochina

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and France today agreed to a joint plan to help up the anti-Communist war in Indochina with a 300 million dollar increase in American assistance over the next 15 months.

A communique issued by the two governments announced that France "is determined to make every effort to break up and destroy the regular enemy forces in Indochina."

The plans for enlarging the campaign against the Reds, who have long received aid from Communist China call for (1) increasing the forces of the native governments of Cambodia, Laos and Viet Nam; and (2) temporarily building up French military strength in Indochina "to levels considered necessary to assure the success of existing military plans."

"The additional United States aid," said a communique released here in the State Department, "is designed to help make it possible to achieve these objectives with minimum speed and effectiveness."

The deal would back up a 400 million dollar sum voted by Congress earlier this year to finance guns, ammunition, planes and equipment needed to continue the seven-year-old Indochina struggle.

President Eisenhower said he personally approved it despite his administration's economy program. The National Security Council secretly approved the arrangement in a meeting two weeks ago as part of a Western drive to keep the rich Indochina area out of Communist hands.

Heat Wave Snaps in the Midwest

By United Press

A record-breaking fall heat wave was snapped today in most of the Midwest and Southwest as fire fighters stood by to control forest fires that killed a three-year-old child and threatened to wipe out an Indiana town.

Meanwhile, weathermen said a warm front would move northwest along the Atlantic Coast from Dixie. Hot weather was also expected to prevail in parts of the Ohio Valley until the cold front that brought relief to the Midwest could roll eastward past Indiana.

Numerous weather records fell yesterday for the second day in a row in the country's midsection as hot, gusty winds blew over the area.

But Kansas City detectives reported there had been no word from the red-haired woman who posed as Bobby's aunt Monday to spirit him away from the fashionable Institute of Notre Dame De Sion, where he was a first grader.

The most significant tip yesterday led police to a dead end. A truck driver in Johnson County, Kansas, drove the state line from Kansas City, Mo., told authorities he had seen a pickup truck occupied by a man, a woman and a child dressed in clothing similar to that worn by Bobby. He said he thought the woman was trying to hide the child.

to become a Roman Catholic Sister of Charity.

"I found the religious life every thing I hoped it would be," she said. "I needed only the physical strength to continue. I want to return as soon as I am able."

She arrived dressed simply but smartly in a brown tailored suit. She wore no make-up and brown alligator pumps and carried an alligator handbag. Liptak was her only makeup.

Always known as one of the most cooperative of actresses, she willingly posed for pictures and chatted with reporters at the home of her sister, Mrs. Dorothy Flynn.

"I'm so surprised to see such a homecoming," she said. "I don't consider myself a celebrity any more."

At the airport to greet her were her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ottobadi; her two sisters, her grandmother and John (Judge) Carberry, an old-time friend of the family.

She disclosed that today was not the first time that she had appeared in street clothes since she entered the convent at Xavier, Kan., 17 months ago. She said that as a postulant, she had to dress in street clothes to make an unpublicized visit to a hospital three months ago.

It was then, she said, that she realized that her illness was serious enough to become a paralytic toward completion of the two-year novitiate training required before she could take permanent vows. Her illness, she disclosed, is tied up with a very low metabolism rate.

She said she is "extremely happy" in religious life and added that she does not intend to resume film work.

"I want only to rest," she said, "so that I may regain my strength and resume my religious training. If God is willing."

Later at a family reunion at her sister's home, Miss Haver said she has had little news of Hollywood and the rest of the outside world.

"Life in the convent is like life in the Army," she said. "We all wait for mail call. That's our only touch with the life we left behind."

Her life in the convent has included labor in the kitchen and laundry.

Her hair was cut short in an all-glamourous trim to button off the convent veil she has been wearing. She laughed when one of her sisters told her that she was right in style with her new "Italian bob."

$55 Million Asked For Flood Control

WASHINGTON, Mo. — The federal government was asked yesterday to provide $55 million dollars next year for flood control work on the lower Mississippi River and its tributaries.

An Arkansas delegation headed by Sen. Frank B. Rowland, asked Congress to provide $55 million for flood control work on the lower Mississippi River and its tributaries.

Late afternoon prices were 25 cents a bale lower to 20 cents higher than the previous close. Oct. 32.05, Dec. 32.03 and March 33.37.

State Police to Patrol Hot Spots

LITTLE ROCK — State police in four unmarked cars will patrol "hot spots" on Arkansas highways this weekend in an effort to cut down on traffic accidents.

Chief Frank McGibbony said yesterday that eight experienced officers will man the cars, which will move from one locality to another throughout the state.

McGibbony said the officers have orders to arrest all drivers making hazardous violations.

"We don't like to put people in jail, but we'd rather they were in jail than in the morgue," said McGibbony. "We're through worrying them. We are being forced to enforce the law in order to save lives."

So far this year, 292 persons have been killed in traffic accidents in Arkansas. At the corresponding time last year, 324 persons had been killed.

AFL Union Officials Meet in Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS — George Meany, president of the AFL, and other high ranking officers of the union met here today.

A spokesman said Meany was in this resort city to take the baths. Others attending the conference were Ed Toth, New York; Joseph Clark, Chicago; Robert Wolf, Washington; Harry J. Steper, Washington; William F. Schnitzler, Washington; and Le Minto, Philadelphia.

Schnitzler identified the conference but refused further comment. He said a meeting was scheduled for this afternoon, but declined to say what would be discussed.

The International Longshoremen's Association, kicked out of the AFL last week for harboring racketeers, has threatened to call a strike. Such action could intensify hostilities along the docks with the new International Longshoremen's Association, which was set up by the AFL after it expelled the old longshoremen's union.

He is a hard to sit in also as a neutral.

He stepped down on a proposal by Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. that the conference could decide for itself whether to invite some neutral powers.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — Russia resented a new move today by U. S. General Assembly to debate on Korea, but the United States and Britain claimed enough votes to beat down the Communist try.

Today's first meeting of the 60-nation Assembly Political Committee was the last for a decade. The third round in the battle to get consideration at once of Communist demands to expand the Korean peace conference in a round table meeting, neutrals.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei G. Malenkov said that the United States and Britain had served notice that they would demand that the committee take up Korea as its first agenda item.

Lodge, by the United States and Britain, the 10 U. N. members which sent troops to Korea strongly opposed any such discussion until the proposed political conference gets well under way. They planned to move for postponement of the Korean question until late fall.

The conference is supposed to start Oct. 20 and claimed enough votes to put this over.

The Allies won the first two rounds of the battle with Vislinsky last week when the Steering Committee and the Assembly both spurned Russian attempts to upset the previous U. N. decision that the Korean conference should be a two-sided parley of belligerents.

U. S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. took a lot of wind out of the Red sails last week when he suggested that the conference itself decide whether to invite other countries.

France, among others, hailed that idea and said she would work for an invitation for India.

But the French were not so happy about another item on the Political Committee worksheet—Asian-Arab charges that France's treatment of Moroccan and Tunisian nationalists threatens peace. The French are expected to walk out when the charges come up for debate in the near future.

Other items on the committee's agenda are disarmament, the recurrent Communist charges that the United States used germ warfare in Korea, and Burma's charge that Nationalist Chinese guerrillas are committing aggression inside her northern borders.

Committees Tackle Money Slash Job

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON — Two presidential commissions today tackled the job of whittling down "big government."

A 25-member commission on intergovernmental relations assembled to take the oath of office at the White House while the new 12-member Hoover Commission set up near Capitol Hill.

The larger body was charged by President Eisenhower with studying how to eliminate "frictions, duplication and waste" between the federal government, on one hand, and the state and local governments on the other.

Revenue-hungry states and cities, primarily would like the federal government to move out of some tax fields—like gasoline, tobacco and admissions—so they can move in.

And officials point out that the government would like to turn over to the local units some of its acquired burden of matters like airport and road construction.

The Hoover Commission, headed by 79-year-old former President Herbert Hoover, is moving into a broader and more controversial field than did the bipartisan Hoover Commission of 1947-49.

Its seven Republican and five Democratic members, aided by nine "task forces" of experts in as many fields, will take on questions of policy as well as government organization. It can recommend not only streamlining, but also elimination of federal activities as it sees fit.

Sizzling Heat Continues

By The Associated Press

Arkansas' August-like weather continued throughout the state yesterday increasing early drought damage and bringing danger to the state's woodlands.

Temperatures soared for the third straight day, burning up pasture lands and evaporating needed moisture for late crops.

Arkadelphia, which has had an inch and a half of rain in the past two months, had the highest temperature yesterday—108 degrees. Flippin had the next highest—104, with El Dorado and Little Rock reporting 101. Fort Smith and Pine Bluff had 100.

The heat has proved beneficial to the mid-season cotton crop, which is maturing rapidly. Cotton picking is in full swing with reports showing enough labor on hand to carry the load. The weekly crop report said yesterday, however, that prospects for the late cotton crop aren't too good because of the lack of moisture.

Later at Vienn, agricultural statisticians at Little Rock said

Justice Job Probable for Warren

WASHINGTON — Chief Justice Earl Warren of California will be named to the Supreme Court to replace the late Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson.

There was an official confirmation that Warren referred all questions to Washington, and Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., and President Eisenhower were unanimously secretive.

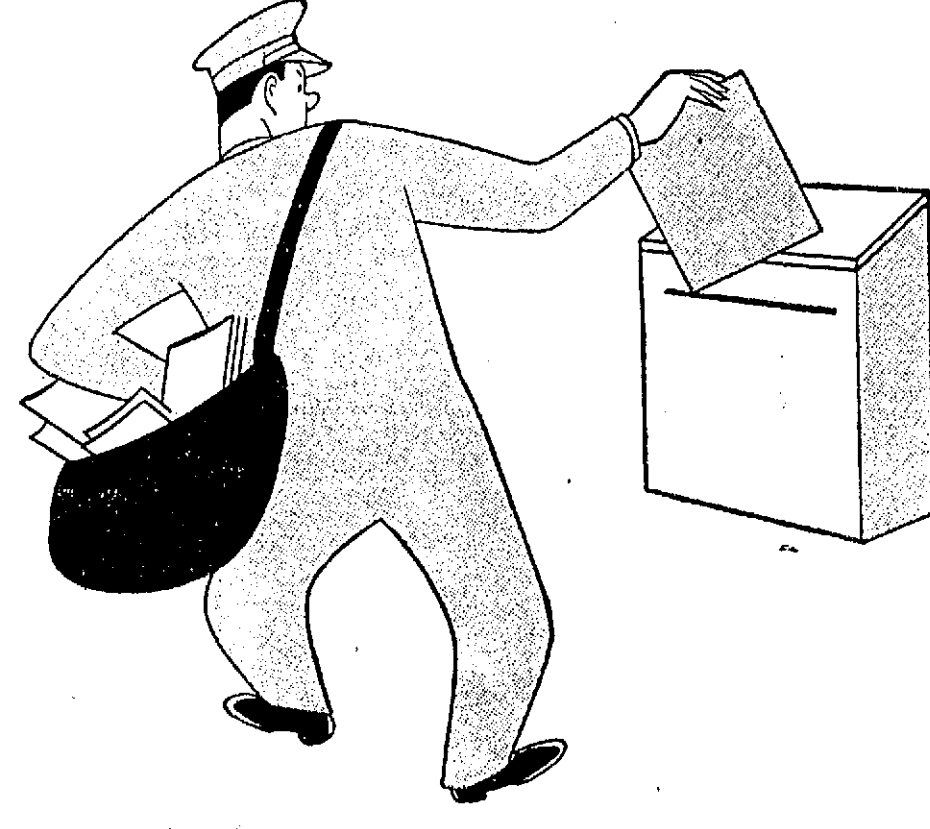

But at the same time there was no effort from any quarter to discourage the intense speculation nourished off by the secret Warren-Brownell meeting in California Sunday.

Warren, who has announced he will seek re-election next year, has been the most frequently mentioned possibility as the successor to Vinson. Even before Vinson's death Sept. 8, it was known the governor aspired to a Supreme Court seat.

Brownell, who has not made his recommendations for Vinson's successor, flew secretly to Sacramento for his three-hour conference with Warren. Even his aides were unaware of his trip until after his return.

He promptly reported the results of his conversation to Mr. Eisenhower at a 20-minute long talk.

Coming Your Way!

Hope's NEW TELEPHONE DIRECTORY With Metropolitan Numbers

Your new telephone directory — containing NEW "METROPOLITAN" NUMBERS — should be reaching Hope homes and businesses today and tomorrow.

When you receive your new directory, keep it near your telephone. It contains all the new numbers that were added during the past year, also any numbers that were changed during this time.

With the new directory comes a metropolitan name prefix — "PProspect" — in front of all Hope telephone numbers. The name prefix has been added to your numbers as part of the program that's bringing you a faster long distance dialing system.

SAVE TIME

Remember These Things

1. Look in the NEW directory for the number you want.
2. Dial the five digits, just as you have been doing.
3. On long distance calls, give the operator the complete number, including the name prefix "PProspect."

On local calls, it will not be necessary for you to dial any letters in the name prefix; simply the five digits just as you have been doing. But for long distance calls, start using now the complete number, including the PProspect prefix. The operator needs this for long distance dialing purposes. And, it'll be a good idea to give your complete number to friends and others who call you frequently from out of town. You'll get faster service on incoming calls this way, too.

Occasional Humility Does Good for city

By DON WHITEHEAD
For James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—There isn't so much wrong with our town here on the Potomac that couldn't be cured by an occasional dose of humility. There is a peculiar affliction that can be diagnosed as "Washingtonitis"—or the delusion that here is the dog and the rest of the country (sometimes the world) is a tail hooked on behind. And tails were made to be wagged.

It's an attitude spawned by supercharged politics, without any relationship to which party is in power. Its victims may be politicians, newsmen, government employees, society leaders or just anybody that happens to call Washington home.

The only known cure is the humility that comes from (A) getting licked at the polls in an election, or (B) getting out of town occasionally to discover how the rest of the world lives and thinks.

Oddly enough, out beyond the political mists and fogs, out where the luxes are harvested, the traveler may find that Washington is an important place—but after all it's only a part of these United States.

On a recent trip into Ohio, I asked a friend what the political sentiment was since the change of administration last January. He is a Republican.

He said: "We've been a little disappointed that the administration hasn't moved faster than it has. But then I suppose you could n't expect the Republicans to turn things upside down overnight after 20 years of Democratic rule. We're sort of reserving judgment for the time being."

"Actually, I think people are a lot more concerned about what is going to happen to business than they are about politics."

A little more inquiry developed that the business barometer at present is drawing more attention than the political barometer. In other words, the Washington dog had better watch its own tail or it might get its brains shaken out.

But "Washingtonitis" can break out in various forms and there's no way to predict when or where. At a recent cocktail party, a woman asked a visitor how long he had been in town. He told her two weeks and that already he was sort of homesick for the Far West.

"Really," she said, "how quaint. I couldn't imagine anyone wanting to leave a place as exciting and alive as Washington. I couldn't bear to be away from the center of things where the decisions are made. But you can't understand, I suppose, unless you've lived here as long as I and have become a part of it."

The visitor was a little vague about sticking around another 15 years or so to get onto the swing of things. He mumbled that he was fairly happy where he was.

Later he said: "I don't discount the influence Washington has on the rest of the world, but have these people forgotten the influence which the rest of the world has on Washington? Just who is influencing whom?"

It was a fair question. Those who fall prey to "Washingtonitis" have their opposites abroad in those Americans who have become professional expatriates. They are the ones who cling to their citizenship and passports for dear life—while belittling everything American from food to manners. And they do it with an air of apology.

Both types are annoying. But don't let "Washingtonitis" sear you away from our town. It isn't contagious and it's fairly safe to bet you won't be bothered by the expatriates.

Besides, any trip is worthwhile if it makes you appreciate home more.

Triple Killing Is Investigated

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Detectives who investigated a triple killing here, including a suicide, said Harry Engler, 37, apparently read a series of lurid crime stories before going out to shoot Mr. and Mrs. William Goldstein.

Goldstein, 55, and his wife, 48, were shot down Saturday night in front of their pawn shop near this city's principal shopping area.

Detective W. P. McClure said the motive for the double slaying and suicide apparently was revenge because Engler had been fired by Goldstein. The discharged employee shot the Goldsteins down as they walked to their car after closing their pawnshop. Engler then put a bullet through his own brain and fell alongside his victims.

Mrs. Goldstein died instantly, as did Engler. Goldstein was pronounced dead at a hospital. Police said they found lurid crime stories on Engler's bed in his Miami Beach hotel room.

The Goldsteins are survived by a daughter, Mrs. Norma Lee of Fayetteville, Ark.

Warns Forest Fire Season Is at Hand

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Fred Lang, director of the state Forestry Department, today declared a state of emergency as more than 1,116 acres of bone dry timber were swept by fires.

Two of the first still were unchecked today. In declaring the state of emergency, Lang said high winds yesterday fanned 34 individual fires. The forestry director said the timber in the state this year was in "far worse shape" than it was last year when a number of large and costly fires raged through forests.

The two fires today were in north Arkansas. Lang said a 230-acre fire near Harrison still was burning and another 200-acre blaze was located near Mountain View.

Lang said state police and other law enforcement officials have been alerted against possible arsonists.

Orders Food Sent Back to Plant

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Federal District Judge Harry J. Lemley yesterday ordered 271 cases of fruit preserves sent back to the manufacturer on charges of misrepresentation on the label.

The shipment had been sent to a Pine Bluff firm by Colonial Manufacturing Co. of Oklahoma City, Okla. The firm was asked to relabel the preserves.

Lemley said the 2-pound weight

Demands a Hearing on Charges

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Former State Senator Jerry Scretton today demanded that the State Highway Commission to give him a public hearing at Mount Ida on charges that he struck and injured a highway department engineer.

Scretton issued a prepared statement protesting the commission's action in suspending the Montgomery county road project in which his company holds the contract.

Highway Engineer A. E. Johnson suspended the work after Scretton allegedly beat up resident Engineer Gilbert Smith and broke Smith's nose in the altercation. The fight reportedly followed an argument over an asphaltic mix being used on the road.

Scretton's statement said the fight was the result of an "arbitrary, vicious and malicious" and "unfair" of the engineer.

Scretton, who now is the mayor of Hazen, also criticized published reports of the fight because they gave Smith's age but not his own. The report said Smith was 22 years old.

"But there was nothing said about the fact that I'm 55 and that I'm a heart patient and a former tuberculosis patient," Scretton declared. "I wouldn't have engaged in a fight that might have caused my death if I had not been provoked to the point of desperation."

Scretton said he was asking a full public hearing that could be attended by Montgomery county law enforcement officers and residents of the county. He said this would be fair to Smith and that "things could come out of this hearing that would be of real benefit to the people of Arkansas."

Scretton said that several members of a highway department road crew saw the altercation and made no effort to intervene. He also named Bob Lawton and Ed Blue, both of Hot Springs, as "disinterested" witnesses who did not try to stop the fight.

Scretton had no comment when asked if he had struck Smith while Smith was still sitting in his car. "That would imply that I struck Smith first," Scretton said. "Those facts will come out at the hearing."

Scretton is owner of the Bucton Construction Co., of Hazen, and said his firm is "losing hundreds of dollars every hour" from suspension of the project.

March 21 and Sept. 21—when days and nights are of equal length—are called the spring and fall equinoxes.

On the label was erroneous and that the contents did not contain pure preserves as stated.

New Russian Jet Termed the Best

NEW YORK (UP)—The Communists had a new Soviet jet bomber in Korea this year that could have forced the United Nations into a "tough and go" position but never used it, Fortune magazine reported today.

The Red bomber, the Il-28, is described in the October issue of the magazine. The Il-28, in the light jet-bomber class, has a top speed close to sound, a 700-mile radius of action and a performance in a class with the new British Canberra, the magazine said.

An article entitled "Defense and Strategy" said the Reds had at least 100 of the new bombers in Korea during the last months of the war but never engaged them with U. N. planes, possibly because of the fear that one might crash in U. N. territory and be examined.

Fortune estimated that if the Il-28 had ever been used in a surprise blow against U. N. bases in South Korea while MIG fighters assaulted forward airfields, "the U. N. position on the Korean peninsula would have been touch and go."

AFL in Protest of Transfers

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—AFL union officials attacked the proposed transfer of three State Hospital laundry workers at a protest meeting here last night.

Members of the Little Rock Central Trades and Labor Council and hospital employees said they have asked the Hospital board, which ordered the transfers, to meet with union representatives before Oct. 1. A previous appeal to the hospital board was denied.

On Oct. 1, Virgil Higgins is scheduled to be demoted from Little Rock laundry unit manager to assistant manager; W. A. Pumphrey, union unit manager is to replace Higgins and Thomas Dooley, assistant laundry manager as Little Rock will replace Pumphrey.

Higgins and Dooley said they would quit before accepting the transfers.

Wade McKnight, secretary treasurer of the council, said the group would take its protest to Gov. Frances Cherry if necessary.

35th to Hold Meet in Kansas City

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—The 35th Division will hold its 1954 reunion in Kansas City, Kas., today.

The meeting place was selected yesterday at the closing session of this year's reunion. Charles Mayes, chairman of the St. Joseph convention committee, said next year's reunion would be in late September or early October.

Gilbert Schreiner of Tonka, Kan., was elected president of the 35th Division Assn., succeeding Brig. bobbies in a parade Saturday.

DOROTHY DIX His Persistent In-Law

Dear Miss Dix: Since our marriage a year ago, my wife and I have lived with her mother, a widow of 80 with no income, though she owns the house in which we live. My wife has supported her mother for the past few years. My mother-in-law considers herself the head of our household; nothing can be done without her permission. She runs the budget, decides what friends we should entertain, how we should spend our spare time, etc. My wife is used to this bossing, and goes along with it, but it's something new to me. We've tried to find things to occupy my mother-in-law's time and attention, but nothing interests her except our affairs. I realize that I am presenting only one side of the story, but I do feel we are entitled to some life of our own. TOM K

Princeton Students Fight Sloppy Sleeves

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP)—Thirty Princeton University graduate students are putting up a fight for democracy and the an-soupy sleeve.

The recalcitrant 30 are refusing to wear academic gowns to dinner. The Graduate School revived a tradition of wearing the gowns to dinner.

But the rebels say that the gowns are comfortable and that the long, flowing sleeves have a tendency to drag through soup, mashed potatoes and other entrees. They also charge that a poll of the Graduate School's students last spring showed they were opposed to the gowns 2-1.

So the 30 cut in a side room at Proctor Hall while their 140 conforming brothers eat in the main dining hall.

Hugh Stott Taylor, dean of the Graduate College, says he will not budge from the rule.

Taylor said the gowns are "aesthetically pleasing."

As for democracy, he said, "Some things aren't decided by vote. For example, women aren't allowed in the dining hall but I am sure if it were put to a student vote they would all be for it."

UNDER RED CONTROL

TOKYO (AP)—Peiping radio said today Harbin and Changchun have been brought under direct control of Red China's central government.

Harbin and Changchun are the second and third largest cities in Manchuria. The largest is Mukden. Harbin has a large population of Russians.

Answer: If you can bring yourself to the realization that had you married the other boy, it would be your present husband who would have the hero role in your dreams, you'll be able to overcome your romantic illusions. Yours is a very commonplace problem among wives who married too young; its solution is not in a childish yielding to sentimentality, but in adult reasoning to overcome it.

Answer: When a son or daughter is responsible for a completely dependent parent—whether the dependency is for emotional or moral support—the fact is usually quite well known to a prospective mate. The complication should be thoroughly thrashed out before marriage, and any compromise settled then. No such situation is eased after the wedding bells' peal has died down; if anything, it becomes worse, and the time to face it is before, not after a third party enters the scene.

The arrangement of your household is so thoroughly established that you will never be considered anything but an intruder into a mother-daughter relationship. The problem might be resolved with the arrival of a fourth party. Should your wife have a child, a financial readjustment, at least, would be necessary, since your wife couldn't continue to work and care for a baby, too.

If you should be blessed with the determination to take a firm stand in your domestic entanglement, it would be the best thing you could do for all concerned. Both you and your wife would be happier, and your mother-in-law's disposition would be forcibly improved. The likelihood, however, is that you won't be too successful in any attempt to establish yourself as head of the house. The matriarchal influence has been too deeply imbedded and nothing short of your absolute insistence will change it.

Dear Miss Dix: My girl friend and I are very much in love, but I am jealous of her in every way. I don't like to share her with anyone. It bothers me if she sends cards or letters to friends. I am P. B.

Answer: You have a lot of giving up to do, son, including a considerable battle against a very futile emotion—jealousy. One way to overcome it is to add being to self-centered yourself. Increase your own circle of friends—then you won't object so strenuously to your girl's friendliness.

Dear Miss Dix: After three years of marriage, I realize that I don't love my husband. He's good to me and works hard, but I know now that my heart is with a boy I used to go with. I admit I married too young, at 17, but must I suffer all ways for this mistake?

New Look Is Slated for Parts of Spain

By PHIL NEWSOM
UP Foreign News Editor

The passage of time, among nations as among individuals, brings changes.

Thus, in the not too distant future, the ancient Spanish cities and ports will be looking on a new look, new roads will wind through Spain's mountains and new equipment will roll along her revitalized rail system.

All this the result of her newly-negotiated defense pact with the United States, and $200,000,000 in American money.

Afterward, against Generalissimo Francisco Franco and his off-the-cuff close ties with the Hitler and Mussolini regimes ran high in the United States, and even higher in Britain and France.

There is no denying the military value of Spain in the defense of Western Europe, one of Franco's own hatred for Communism.

Undoubtedly, there is much to be learned from the Spanish financial condition that caused her to abandon the neutrality which would have saved her from the Spanish civil war.

For with United States ships outfitting at Spanish ports, carrying bombs, and carrying planes, Spain is now a target.

Spain, nestled behind the Pyrenees, is an ideal island position against any sudden Communist attack across Europe.

Her military planners say would be a certainty, in the event of any attack now, adding the state of Europe's present defense.

Problems in Balancing U S Budget

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Money problems are the back of the Eisenhower administration, which would like to keep a budget in balance, but the budget, cutting taxes, and spending for defense, all at the same time.

It is a dilemma that would be simplified if it could be met with certainty that to expect from Russia and Red China for them, if the prediction was peace, it could cut defense spending, the biggest item of expense.

But because of the uncertainty about the Communists, complicated by their progress with the hydrogen bomb, the administration may feel now it must move cautiously on defense cuts. That will make tax cutting and budget-balancing tougher.

That the administration is concerned about cutting defense spending was made clear enough yesterday by Secretary of the Treasury, Humphrey, who said in a speech:

"The great and really important reason, however, why it is most difficult to cut expenditures radically and bring about a balanced budget and a tax reduction measure, is that the same time relates to our national security."

Without due consideration for it, the rapid reduction of expenditures would be comparatively easy. But with the real possibility of an attack on Pearl Harbor hanging directly over our heads, and with the knowledge of the Russian capability to produce an even more potent weapon, national security is a matter of first concern.

In this same speech in which he put national defense ahead of economy, Humphrey said that the administration will not try to prevent the excess profits tax ending.

Now Believes Beria Story All a Hoax

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) says the story that Lavrenty Beria escaped from Russia and would welcome asylum in the United States "begins to appear like a hoax."

But McCarthy did not say the administration wouldn't try to block two other tax changes scheduled, also by previous action of Congress, for a few months later.

For one April 1 the normal tax on corporations is due to go down five percentage points and some excise taxes end or drop. These changes go into effect when Congress is here for its 1954 session.

The administration might try to get Congress to reverse itself then. The four tax changes just listed will mean a loss of around eight billion dollars in revenue for the government in the fiscal year starting next July 1, a year in which the administration had hoped to balance the budget.

In his speech yesterday Humphrey did not say the administration would not try to get Congress to approve some kind of new tax to make up for the loss of all or some of that money.

He had said previously the administration was considering various ways of getting additional revenue, including a national sales tax, although it is questionable that Congress, in a congressional election year, would vote a sales tax.

No matter what the administration has in mind about taxes at least the kind of speech Humphrey made yesterday prepares the country or what the administration eventually does.

President Eisenhower himself in a speech two days ago used a sentence which might signify much or nothing but still kept the thought of taxes high in the mind of the country. He said:

"There is no sacrifice in labor."

"There is no sacrifice in labor."

"There is no sacrifice in labor."

"There is no sacrifice in labor."

"There is no sacrifice in labor."

"There is no sacrifice in labor."

"There is no sacrifice in labor."

"There is no sacrifice in labor."

"There is no sacrifice in labor."

"There is no sacrifice in labor."

"There is no sacrifice in labor."

McCarthy's investigations subcommittee was looking into reports that Beria had managed to flee to a neutral country and would welcome protection in this country.

Subsequently, a Madrid newspaper published unconfirmed reports that the FBI was checking a story that Beria, or someone claiming to be Beria, had parachuted into Spain and was hiding out there.

McCarthy said yesterday, for the first time, that the man his group had been checking on was "allegedly in Spain," but he declined to elaborate. He said he expects the Spanish government will release a statement on the matter shortly.

Word got out 10 days ago that no tax, no service—too hard for us to bear to support a logical and necessary defense of our freedom."

On successive days the President and the secretary of the Treasury emphasized defense over economy, which might mean there should be no surprise if the budget isn't balanced next year, as the administration had hoped.

Redlegs Sign New Manager

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK (AP) George (Buddie) Tebbetts went shopping today for right-handed pitchers as the new manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Tebbetts, who piloted Indianapolis to fourth place in the American Association this season after 1 1/2 years of major league catching, was signed to a two-year contract.

"I don't know much about the Cincinnati players," said Tebbetts. "After all, I spent my days playing in the American League."

But General Manager Gabe Paul quickly advised his new field boss that the Redlegs had a number of players who could help him.

Paul said he already had talked to several clubs but that nothing was definite. He also declined to say whether he was willing to trade off some of the Redlegs or pay cash.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK (AP) They are playing another World Series today, and we have been hearing and reading a great deal about the vital character of the contest. Now the Yankees will be stricken virtually defenseless if they should lose it to the Brooklyn Dodgers and, of course, vice versa.

It got us to wondering why they even bother to play more than the one game if that's the case. The Yankees will be stricken virtually defenseless if they should lose it to the Brooklyn Dodgers and, of course, vice versa.

VINTAGE BEAUTY — Diane Hagshaw returns as "Vintage Queen of 1953." The title was conferred on the California beauty during the California State Fair.

BITE-SIZE TREAT — Maybe it won't be long before you can enjoy watermelon without loading your refrigerator to capacity. Pretty Jackie Rush displays the two-pound, bite-size delicacy at the Los Angeles County Fair. She's surrounded by Rattlesnake melons, which average 20 to 60 pounds in weight. Fruit growers claim the tiny taste-treats retain the values of the standard melon.

MONROE, Wis. (UP) — A 21-year-old repatriated prisoner of war was killed in an auto crash while driving to a dance.

The soldier, Otis Kammerud, was released from a Korean prison camp August 17 after two years imprisonment.

Authorities said he was killed Saturday when his car hit a bridge abutment on Highway 81, nine miles northeast of here.

Kammerud, son of Arthur Kammerud of Blancherville, Wis., was driving alone to a dance here when the accident occurred, according to his aunt, Mrs. Norman Nelson.

In last week's tussles, Oklahoma A&M defeated Arkansas 7-6; Texas routed Villanova 14-12; and Texas Tech won 14-12.

DOGS

by Tom Farley

THE HOMING INSTINCT

The method by which a pet, taken from his home, so often finds the way back over miles of unfamiliar territory, is as much a mystery today as it was a hundred years ago.

For want of a better explanation, we usually credit this to instinct and let it go at that, though some who have made a study of the phenomenon have come up with more elaborate theories.

For instance, back in 1979 a writer, whose name is now forgotten, produced the interesting theory that dogs and horses understood far more of the language of humans than they acknowledged.

He cited cases of dogs that came home after having been shipped by rail for great distances and theorized that they had understood the names of the towns as they were called out by the railroad conductors and retraced their route by asking questions of other dogs and listening to the conversation of humans.

This theory is probably pretty well disproved today. First, because no one, not even a dog, could understand the names of the towns as announced by the railroad conductors and, second, because the same facts have been duplicated by dogs shipped to new homes by air.

If these stories of travel do nothing else, however, they prove that dogs get homesick. Just as with humans, dogs are usually content for a few days after a move, sometimes even for a few weeks, but the time comes when the homesick bug bites them and it is then that they take off.

Unfortunately, not all make it. A fair percentage of stray dogs are those that leave a new home, perhaps with the idea of returning to their old one, but end up homeless.

There is little that can be done to prevent this except to keep the dog confined to his new home for a reasonable period of time and make his strange surroundings as happy and attractive as possible.

There are more planes fitted to carry the weapons than there are weapons. Few if any official estimates put the atomic stockpile as high as 4,000 bombs.

But the quality of the planes is something else again. The 4,000 estimate includes planes is something else again. The 4,000 estimate includes planes of every type announced as being fitted for weapons delivery.

Of these, the Air Force has at a maximum 3,500 and the Navy has in the neighborhood of 500, possibly more, according to available estimates.

Not all the planes are in combat units. The Air Force, for example, has received more than 600 B-47 jet bombers. But so far as has been announced only two combat wings, totaling about 90 B-47s, have been organized and completed training. Strategic air command crews are being trained to make over the speedy bombers as fast as possible.

The other Air Force planes that can carry atomic weapons are the Intercontinental B-36 Superbombers, B-29 and B-50 Superforts, B-45 Tornado light jet bombers and the F-84 Thunderjet fighters.

The Navy planes that can carry atomic weapons, according to public announcements, are the AJ Savage and AD-4 Skyraider attack bombers and the F2H-2B Banshee fighter flown by the Marines.

If any credence can be given to published guesses — and they are hardly more than guesses — as to the size of America's atomic weapons stockpile, it may well be that we cut off from 30 inches back to 22, we'll lose average shot speed over a 40-yard range. In other words, the shot from a 28-inch barrel will hit a 40-yard duck between 25 and 30 feet per second slower than the same load from a 30-inch tube of the same choke.

Mean anything? Not much. The difference in pellet energy isn't worth calculating; the difference in penetration can't very well be measured. Actually, those 25-30 feet per second are less than the variations in shot speed you'll get from shell all out of the same box, all fired in the same gun. Shot shells just can't be loaded that close.

Furthermore, since the choke in a gun acts like a nose muzzle to speed up the shot string, it has been proven that one-thousandth of an inch of choke restriction means a difference of 100 feet per second in velocity for the whole charge. Here's a little variation in the inside dimensions of a couple of "fours."

Actually, if we assume that we are going to use identical shells and that the degree of choke at the muzzle is the same, the difference in velocity between the two barrels is

St. Luke at Sheppard observed its first anniversary with the Rev. N. Glover as pastor, Sunday, September 27. A very active Sunday School was conducted by Mrs. Gertrude Nash, following this with a program of welcome address, papers, solos and remarks. The Rev. J. W. Walker, the assistant pastor of Lonske Baptist Church, preached the sermon. Everyone was pleased with the services. Mrs. Ellen Powell, a charter member of the church was present. A quartet of local talent gave some interesting numbers.

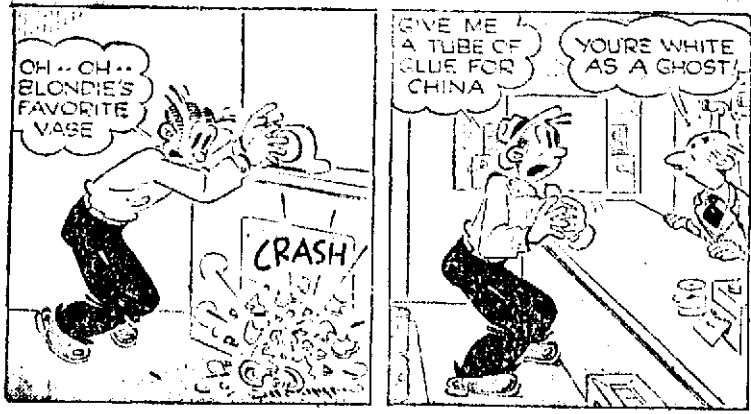

Funeral services for Mrs. Ada Johnson will be held Friday, October 2, at St. Peter CMC Church. Burial will be in St. Peter Cemetery at 1 p.m.

The Southland Gospel singers of Texarkana will give a musical program at Rising Star Baptist Church Sunday night, October 4, sponsored by the Usher Board.

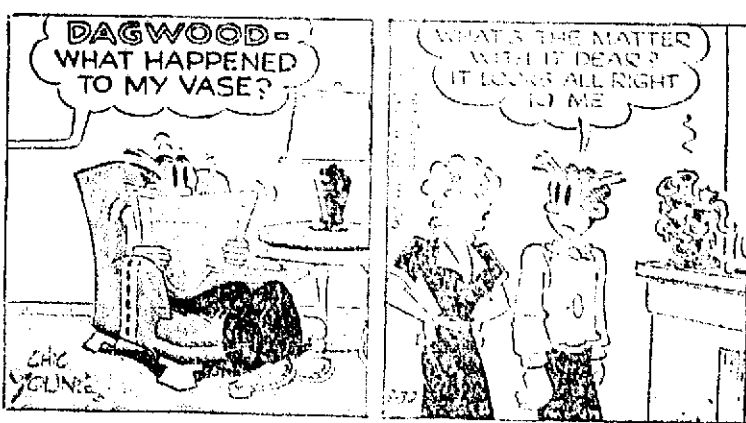

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Lennel and Mrs. Birdie Cooper of Minden, La., spent the week-end with Mrs. Vera Jones.

The Yegger PTA will meet Thursday afternoon, October 1, at 3:45 p.m. The Executive committee is requested to meet at 2:30. All members and friends are urged to be present.
